All Age Employability Service YPG – ERI

Participant Information Leaflet

The aim of the Scottish Government's YPG funding is to deliver fairer and more inclusive communities where every young person has an opportunity to reach their potential.

The Guarantee builds on the existing strong education, learning, employability, training and employment infrastructure to tackle the long term economic and social scarring of the Covid-19 pandemic.

Specific priority will be given to those with multiple barriers to gaining sustainable employment.

What Funding Can Employers Access to Recruit a Young Person?

The Employer Recruitment Incentive (ERI) funding available to employers is:

- £2,000 (4 x £500) *- part-time job on minimum wage 16-25 contracted hours per week, paid at an hourly rate between National Minimum Wage and real Living Wage rates.
- £4,000 (4 x £1,000) - part-time job on real Living Wage - 16-25 hours at real Living Wage rates or above
- £4,000 (4 x £1,000)* - full-time job on minimum wage - 25 hours or above between National Minimum Wage and real Living Wage rates
- £6,000 (4 x £1,500) - full-time job on real living wage - 25 hours or above at real Living Wage rates or above

Please note a maximum of 50% actual salary costs will be paid in respect of the 52 week support period should actual costs be less than the ERI payment.

*A £500 supplement will also be claimable if the young person is paid the real Living Wage by the end of the 52 week ERI support period.

Employer Eligibility

- Employers from all sectors are eligible and there is no restriction on the size of employer, but an emphasis is given to private SMEs and third sector organisations (including social enterprises).
- Employers who employ individuals on precarious or flexible contracts inappropriately for example zero hour contracts are not eligible.
- The employer can be located anywhere throughout Scotland.
- Employers can use ERI funding to fill vacancies and create new and additional jobs.

- Employers cannot use ERI funding to cover sickness absence, maternity leave or replace redundant posts.

Employment Eligibility

- The employment contract should be a permanent contract or a fixed term contract for up to 18 months or more.
- Prior to commencing employment the young person must receive a written contract of employment which informs of their employment rights and levels of pay (including National Minimum Wage/other negotiated industry rates), before commencing employment.
- Hours worked must be a minimum of 16 hours per week and a maximum of 40 hours per week in line with working time regulations. (If the post is for an apprentice then the hours per week must be sufficient to enable attainment of the qualification). Exceptions can be applied at local discretion, with the agreement of participants, where it is clear that: i) the participant feels this offers greater flexibility in recognition of their personal circumstances (e.g. due to the nature of the participant's health or disability, caring responsibilities, etc); and ii) participants understand the implications for their employment rights.

Employers must:

- Ensure the young person receives formal training as part of their job and as part of their investment in workforce development.
- Allow an Activity Plan to be created by an Employability Team Keyworker.
- Allow quarterly Activity Plan reviews to be undertaken by an Employability Team Keyworker to ensure a quality experience for both participant and employer.
- Be proactive in their collection and use of data to address specific equality issues. For example, public sector employers publish their ethnicity pay gap and produce an action plan to deliver identified outcomes.
- Take action to create a more diverse and inclusive workplace.
- Provide a commitment to consider payment of the real Living Wage during or at the end of the ERI (the salary must be greater than funding received).
- Ensure a safe and healthy working environment.
- Make a commitment to retain the participant beyond the period of the ERI support.
