Reduction of the Educational Psychology Service by 22%.

Reference to legislation, including the Equality Act 2010 and Scottish Government policy drivers.

Gaps in evidence

Until any service redesign is required, evaluation of new models is not possible and therefore the full impact of a reduced Educational Psychology Service will not be clear until that time.

If any 'don't know's have been identified, at what point will impacts on these groups become identifiable?

n/a

How has 'due regard' been given to any negative impacts that have been identified?

The risks of making the proposed budget savings and the likely consequences have been outlined clearly within the papers being submitted for consideration by Elected Members.

Section 4: Interdependencies

Is this proposal likely to have any knock-on effects for any other activities carried out by or on behalf of the council?

Yes

Details of knock-on effects identified

The educational psychology service works directly with school staff and partners to enhance skill and confidence in meeting the needs of children and young people with additional support needs and directing interventions to close the poverty related attainment gap. A 22% reduction to the educational psychology staffing will have a significant impact on the professional learning opportunities offered to staff within schools with a resulting knock on effect for learners and staff.

Section 5: Monitoring and review

How will you monitor and evaluate the equality impacts of your proposal?

The data collected by the educational psychology service will be carefully monitored to consider the impact on vulnerable groups by considering trends over time. There will be engagement with key stakeholders to consider the detail and effectiveness of changes to the service delivery model.
