Partner Good News Stories

The Scottish Women's Development Forum (SWDF) was established in 2003 to increase the representation of women in policing in Scotland. Argyll and West Dunbartonshire Policing Division were delighted to have 2 of our local officers from Argyll and Bute as finalists for the Scottish Women's Development Forum Annual Awards which were held on 27th October 2022 at the Police Scotland College – Tulliallan. This year the awards were centred around "Time to Shine" and reflected commitment to local policing throughout Argyll and Bute and West Dunbartonshire.

PC Eilidh Ann Dewar is from Oban and is currently providing support for a review of rural policing throughout Argyll and Bute ensuring officer welfare and the best possible service is provided to our communities throughout Argyll and Bute. PC Dewar was previously a local response officer covering the Oban area before taking on this role. PC Dewar won the Excellence in Performance Award which was awarded by Deputy Chief Officer, David Page.

PC Laura Evans is the Partnership Liaison Officer for Argyll and Bute, based in Dunoon covering the whole of Argyll and Bute looking at opportunities to develop partnership relationships that will help keep our communities safe. This has ranged from fraud prevention, suicide prevention, support for those living with dementia and road safety matters. Laura was previously a response officer covering Cowal before taking up this role. PC Evans received the Highly Commended Award as Police Officer of the Year with her award being presented by the Chief Constable of Police Scotland, Sir Iain Livingstone.

Coming Soon! Improving lives in Argyll and Bute - tell us your priorities

The Argyll and Bute Community Planning Partnership is planning the focus of our work for the next 10 years.

We will shortly be launching a survey to find out the top 3 themes residents think are most important for improving lives in Argyll and Bute – Watch This Space!

Living Well Grants - New funding available!

Argyll and Bute Health and Social Care Partnership (HSCP) has launched year 4 of the Living Well (Self Management) community capacity building fund, open to Third Sector organisations who currently deliver services/support to adults over the age of 18 living in Argyll and Bute.

A single application process opens on 31st October 2022 and closes at midnight on 25th November. Maximum amount available for 1 single application is £5000.

Money Guiders Scotland Network

Money touches every aspect of our lives. Money guidance is often given as part of wider services provided by many different types of organisations and practitioners. If you talk with others about their money worries and help them, then you are most likely a money guider. The Money Guiders Scotland Network is designed to give you the support and information that can help make it easier for you to talk to others about their money worries.

You can find more information and sign up for regular updates here:

HIE Household survey results

HIE has published the findings of its My Life in the Highlands and Islands survey, carried out by IPSOS at the start of the year. The study area includes Argyll and Bute.

More than 5,300 people over the age of 16 living in 4,442 households across the region responded to the study. The study examines residents access to healthcare, education, transport and economic opportunity. The findings show that sustained and flexible investment is required in services, housing, transport and digital connectivity in the Highlands and Islands to realise economic opportunity and ensure a just transition to net zero.

For more information, click here: Household survey highlights investment needs | HIE

690 adults living in Argyll and the Islands responded and you can read a summary report of these findings here: Argyll and the Islands Summary Report

NatureScot National Parks Consultation

The Scottish Government is committed to the creation of at least one new National Park during the lifetime of the current Scottish Parliament. It is nearly 20 years since Scotland's first two National Parks were created. Before more are created, Scottish Ministers wish to review the role of our National Parks, especially their role in addressing the crises of biodiversity loss and climate change.

NatureScot are seeking views from a wide range of stakeholders and interested groups and individuals on the role of National Parks and the selection criteria for new areas.

Scottish Fire and Rescue Service Strategic Plan

The Scottish Fire and Rescue Service (SFRS) has revealed its plan to help keep Scotland's communities safe.

The Strategic Plan 2022-2025 sets out the Service's strategic intentions for the next three years, and details seven objectives to achieve them.

More info: Scottish Fire & Rescue Service \(firescotland.gov.uk\)

Scottish Fire and Rescue Stay Fire Safe Campaign

Due to a rise in the cost of living, it is anticipated that people may look at alternative ways of heating and lighting their homes. Scotland's fire and rescue service is warning that changing behaviours could put households at risk of accidental fires and carbon monoxide poisoning.

To raise awareness to help to keep people safe, SFRS and other fire and rescue services across the UK are backing the National Fire Chiefs Council's Stay Fire Safe campaign.

This aims to provide advice regarding the hazards associated with, and guidance for the safe use of portable heaters, electric blankets, wood burning stoves and candles, as well as highlighting chimney safety – a potential fire risk if they have not been cleaned or properly maintained.

Free trees for schools and communities

The Woodland Trust want to make sure everybody in the UK has the chance to plant a tree, so they are giving away hundreds of thousands of trees to schools and communities.

The UK needs millions more trees to reach its 2050 carbon net-zero target. By planting trees, everyone will help bring us nearer this important goal.

There are several different tree packs to suit a variety of circumstances. There are two delivery periods per year, one in March and one in November. The Woodland Trust is currently taking applications for trees to be delivered in MARCH 2023.

Applications for March delivery are expected to close in mid-December or sooner depending on stock availability.

Scotland's Census Outputs Consultation

Scotland's Census plan to start publishing census information in 2023. As part of their work towards publication, they have now launched a Scotland's Census outputs consultation.

All users of census data are encouraged to respond. By responding to the consultation, you will help to produce census outputs that will meet your needs.

The consultation asks users to give their views on:

- the order and sequencing of topics published
- the tools used to publish data
- the geographical levels that data are published at
- how changes to census questions impact users' planned work/research
- what they need from the new census questions

Find out more about the consultation and how to respond here.

Scotland's Census: Update on securing high quality outputs

Scotland's Census recently published a paper on how they are:

Securing high quality Census Outputs and Population Estimates.

The paper explains how they are bringing together data from Scotland's Census Collect 2022, the Census Coverage Survey 2022 and administrative data within statistical estimation methodology. It also covers how they are adapting our statistical methodology to ensure that Scotland's Census 2022 delivers high quality outputs.

Living Well mid-strategy report

The Living Well Strategy was launched by Argyll and Bute's Integration Joint Board in September 2019 as a strategic approach to preventing long term health conditions and enabling people to live well, and also supporting people already living with a long-term health diagnosis.

The Living Well Strategy covers a 5-year period to 2024 and a mid-strategy report has now been published. The report reflects on the progress of Living Well and the strategy partners, reflects on the challenges due to COVID-19 and discusses the next steps to ensure that people within Argyll and Bute can live well. It can be downloaded from:

Public Health Annual Report

The Public Health Team in Argyll and Bute includes health improvement, health intelligence/data analysis and the Alcohol and Drug Partnership support team. An annual work plan sets out the work of the team and this is reported at the end of each year. We are pleased to announce the publication of our 2021/2022 annual report, which can be downloaded here: <https://www.ablivingwell.org/resources-publications>.

The report provides detail on the range of activity delivered by the team supporting the pandemic response but also starting back our core work and addressing the social determinants of health and prevention. If you would like to get in touch with the team please contact: nhsh.abhealthimprovement@nhs.scot

HSCP Money Counts training

The HSCP is offering short training sessions for HSCP and 3rd sector workers who are able to have brief conversations with individuals about money worries and signpost on. The session aims to improve understanding of poverty and its impact, increase confidence to talk about money worries and increase knowledge of support services that are available to people within Argyll and Bute.

Dates and times:

Wednesday 7th December 2022 14.00-14.30 hrs

Scottish Government Gaelic & Scots Language Consultation

The Scottish Government has made a number of commitments to the Gaelic and Scots languages. A range of projects and initiatives have been put in place and important legislation has been supported in the Scottish Parliament.

The Scottish Government would like to take additional steps in support of Gaelic and Scots. Where primary legislation is needed for these, the commitment to a Scottish Languages Bill could serve as the legislative vehicle that will enable progress to be made with these commitments. The Scottish Government is seeking views on how further progress can be made and the views received will assist in shaping the actions taken immediately and over the longer term to deliver on these commitments.

The consultation is available in English, Gaelic and Scots, here

Let's Do Net Zero Community Buildings Fund
Information for partners and stakeholders

New Fund from CARES

The new 'Let's Do Net Zero' Community Buildings Fund from CARES will help community organisations reduce their building energy costs and greenhouse gas emissions. The fund is now open and is planned to run until the end of March 2025, subject to funding availability. Funding is available for many types of self-managed community buildings.

Who can apply?

Applicants must be constituted non-profit distributing community organisations, including organisations with charitable status, that are established and operating across a geographically defined community, or faith groups.

CARES has already supported many community organisations throughout Scotland to successfully install renewable technologies in their community buildings. You can read about these projects on our website, including:

- Cairnlea Parish Church installed two air source heat pumps and now has a cosy hall to restart its community activities
- Aboyne and Mid-Deeside Community Shed installed four air source heat pumps to provide space heating at its community shed
- Loch Ness Hub installed solar panels and an air source heat pump to decarbonise the building's heat and energy supply.

For more information and case studies of buildings funded, click here

Community and Renewable Energy Scheme (CARES) – New ‘How to’ YouTube videos available

Local Energy Scotland's goal is that communities across Scotland are engaging, participating and benefiting in the energy transition to net zero. To help achieve this, they administer the Scottish Government's Community and Renewable Energy Scheme (CARES). CARES offers a range of financial support and advice to community groups, organisations and businesses as above. CARES also supports communities interested in shared ownership of a renewable energy project, and communities that have been approached by commercial developers regarding community benefits packages.

The CARES 2022 Conference took place on 27th September and looked at how communities can take climate action with the support of CARES. A range of 'How to' sessions were held, looking at some of the key skills and actions needed to drive change in communities. These were recorded and are now available on YouTube: Local Energy Scotland - YouTube
