THE ARGYLL HOTEL

Designed in 1750 by the famous Scottish builder John Adam, the Argyll Hotel is one of most historic hotels on the west coast of Scotland. It is in a lovely location at the gateway to the Highlands, on the shores of Loch Fyne and Shira, and now offers 36 comfortable, en suite bedrooms, excellent cuisine and traditional Highland hospitality with peaty malt whiskies to savour.

Whilst sitting in the conservatory, you'll witness spectacular views over Loch Fyne. This is an idyllic hideaway and an ideal base from which to explore the beautiful Western Highlands and Islands.

Originally built to accommodate officials visiting the Inveraray Castle, the Argyll Hotel offers standards of hospitality that more than live up to its illustrious past.

- 36 bedrooms ■ Restaurant ■ Lounge bar, public bar with jukebox and pool table ■ Conservatory ■ Large conference, events and wedding facilities ■ Licensed for civil ceremonies ■ Guide and assistance dogs only ■ Wi-Fi ■ Free on-site car parking
